

Did you know...

Florida has the highest number (150+) of nationally (NAFCC) accredited Family Child Care Homes in the nation!*

The last Observer Training was held in Florida 4 years ago in June 2019.*

We need more NAFCC Observers!!*

Please read ALL below and click on the link at the bottom of this email to apply!*

And please forward this email to others that may be interested in being an Observer for family child care homes.*

The Florida Family Child Care Home Association (FFCCHA) is providing this 2-day training for FREE!*

All participants will need to cover their own travel expenses for the training.*

NAFCC Observations have the option to be virtual or in-person for the FCC homes, so you don't always have to travel to do an Observation but you do have to attend on-site training that will train you to be an Observer.*

NAFCC Observer Job Description

What does a NAFCC Observer do?

A NAFCC observer completes an on-site and/or virtual observation of accreditation operational practices that align with the accreditation quality standards.

Key Responsibilities:

- Respect and understand the NAFCC Accreditation process and its history and observation procedures and process.

- Observe the applicant and the application of their skills and operation practices in their FCC environment.
- Use the Observer Workbook to accurately document the application of the quality standards.
- Prepare the observation report and submit the required documents within the agreed timeline.
- Utilize good communication, organizational, time management, and interpersonal skills to effectively communicate with NAFCC staff and accreditation candidates.
- Summarize the applicant's understanding of the accreditation quality standards during the observation process.
- Adhere to and apply the NAEYC Code of Ethical Conduct.
- Maintain required training as determined by NAFCC
- Maintain confidentiality of records
- Have an ability to separate your role as an observer from other professional roles.
- Recognize the importance of distinguishing between your personal definitions of quality versus those established by the accreditation standards.
- Be respectful of differing perspectives and cultures.
- Be unbiased and have the ability to not impose personal biases when conducting an applicant's observation.
